Exit poll for doctoral students 2017

Dnr 1-196/2018

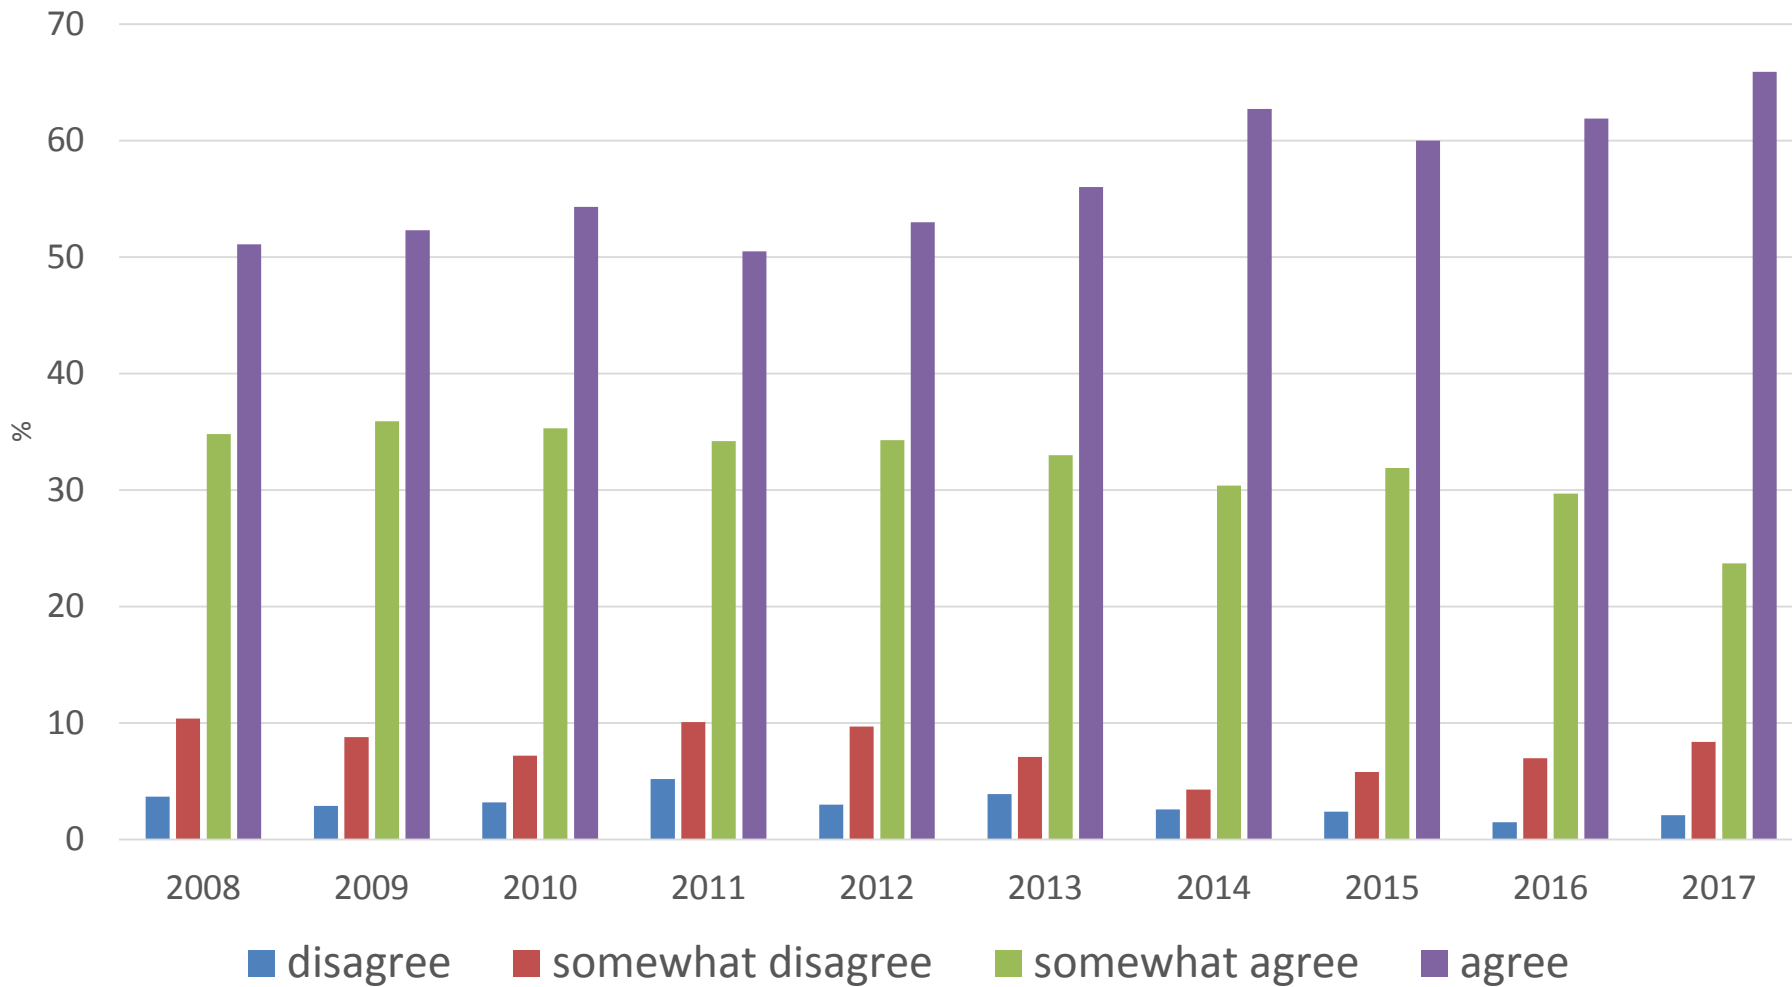

About exit poll

- KI sends out an anonymous survey (Exit Poll) to all graduating doctoral students. The results of the Exit Poll are compiled into a database that is used for different kinds of investigation and forms the basis of regular quality development.
- An overview report is published annually showing trends in some of the most important survey questions. A particular focus for this year is courses and goal fulfilment. A more thorough report was written in 2006, and we refer to that for further details (ref. 1-449/2017).
- Note that since the responses are given in connection with graduation, they reflect the situation several years back. The average length of time between admission and graduation is five years.
